

Carter assaults GOP urban policy

By CHRIS CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

With the presidential election two months away, Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter stumped through the East for votes today while President Ford, emphasizing his incumbency, kept a high profile in the White House.

Carter told a college audience in New York that urban policy in the Nixon and Ford administrations has ruined city neighborhoods. He accused Republicans of paying only lip service to the people who live in those neighborhoods.

Carter began the second day of his fall campaign for the White House by telling Brooklyn College students: "Tight money, shrinking paychecks and a stagnant housing industry are some of the saddest products of the Republicans' disastrous economic record."

The Democrat opened his battle Monday with a sharp attack on Ford, labeling him a latter-day Herbert Hoover and blaming the Republican party for a myriad of economic woes that Carter claims the Democrats will cure.

Ford stayed in the White House, bypassing the traditional Labor Day campaign start to take care of business, chide Congress for not completing work on a major tax-revision bill, give a television interview and prepare for his own campaign start next week.

While Carter continues a five-day whirlwind opening tour that carries him today from New York to Connecticut to Philadelphia, Ford plans more distinctly presidential activities today, including ceremonies at which he will sign bills providing aid for child day-care centers and for victims of the recent Teton Dam disaster in Idaho.

Ford let surrogates, including Sen. Bob Dole, the GOP vice presidential nominee, carry his banner and answer the criticisms Carter levied Monday on the front steps of Franklin D. Roosevelt's "Little White House" in Warm Springs, Ga.

Dole crossed paths with Carter later Monday at a stock car race in Darlington, S.C.

Carter's running mate, Sen. Walter F. Mondale, spoke Monday at labor rallies in Ohio and California. He charged in a Barberton, Ohio, address that Ford's economic policies have "betrayed" U.S. workers.

Carter, speaking from a podium bearing Roosevelt's portrait, said, "This year, as in 1932, our nation is divided, our people are out of work and our national leaders do not lead."

He recalled that in 1932, with the nation struggling in the grip of the Depression, Roosevelt defeated the incumbent Hoover. Carter described Hoover as "a decent and well-intentioned man who sincerely believed that our government could not or should not with bold action attack the terrible economic and social ills of our nation. He was leading a Republican party which lacked the strength and vision to bring us out of those dark days."

But Carter also promised to fight inflation and balance the U.S. budget.

Carter assailed the Nixon and Ford administrations for budget deficits, inflation and unemployment. Later, in a Norfolk, Va., appearance he charged that "we have a quiet, dormant, timid leadership in Washington, closely tied to special interests."

In Washington, a spokesman for Ford's election committee, William I. Greener, later challenged Carter's statements about the economy and his capsule history of the Roosevelt era. Greener said:

"There isn't a serious economist in America today who would credit the elimination of unemployment during the Roosevelt administration to anything but the global holocaust of World War II."

"President Ford is bringing this nation economic stability, drastically reduced inflation and a lowered unemployment rate through peaceful means."

Ford said in an interview with ABC News on Monday that a victory at the polls on Nov. 2 would strengthen his hand in dealing with the nation's problems.

"Being elected, getting a mandate ... would give me greater impact with Congress, more ability to move ahead," said Ford, who became president in August 1974 when the Watergate scandals forced Richard M. Nixon to resign.

Dole and Carter shook hands when they crossed paths at a stock car race in Darlington, but Carter spokesman Jody Powell said his candidate almost canceled his appearance when he learned Dole was going to be there.

Powell said Carter kept his commitment to attend the race only after finding out that Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., had pressured the race organizers to invite Dole.

Powell accused Dole of exhibiting "bad manners and bad taste" for showing up at the race. Carter later declined to adopt Powell's language, but he noted that his own invitation to the race was long-standing.

Dole made appearances two weeks ago on Carter's heels in Seattle and Des Moines, Iowa.

Dole said at a rally in Florence, S.C., that "we take the South seriously. We want the Southern vote."

Kissinger invited to begin diplomatic talks in Africa

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger revealed today that he has been invited by Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere to begin a diplomatic shuttle in Africa.

But, when asked at a news conference to confirm that he intended to open the shuttle next week, Kissinger replied: "I do not at this point want to make it official."

Earlier, a senior American official traveling aboard the secretary's plane on a flight from Paris to this north German port city told accompanying reporters that Kissinger probably would start the trip no later than Monday — after first returning to Washington.

Kissinger said he would not make a final decision to launch his shuttle until William E. Schaefele, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, obtains a positive response from Nyerere in behalf of four other black African leaders who just concluded a summit conference in Dar es Salaam.

Schaefele was expected in the Tanzanian capital on Wednesday to inform Nyerere on three days of talks in Zurich between Kissinger and South African Prime Minister John Vorster.

The American secretary quoted Nyerere's message as saying the Tanzanian president would "appreciate" a Kissinger visit to Dar es Salaam.

The four visiting leaders to the black summit were expected to be gone from Dar es Salaam before Schaefele's arrival, leaving him to meet with only Nyerere.

Nevertheless, there was little indication that anything short of a collapse of prospects for negotiations would prevent Kissinger from going to Africa.

In discussing the planned shuttle, which will take Kissinger from black Africa to white-run South Africa and back to neighboring black states, the senior official judged the chances for success at 50 per cent at best.

"We are trying to prevent an expansion of the conflict and to find a negotiated solution" for the problems of Rhodesia and Namibia, Kissinger told reporters.

Experts inspect Soviet MIG

TOKYO (AP) — Experts have looked over the Soviet MIG25 fighter plane flown to Japan by a defecting Soviet air force pilot, Japanese officials reported today. But they refused to say whether American intelligence officers had looked at the plane, reportedly the hottest in the Soviet arsenal.

U.S. authorities refused to comment, referring all queries to Washington. But it was assumed the Americans would get a thorough examination of the plane before the Japanese government returned it to the Soviet Union.

The Kyodo news service quoted Japanese officials as saying the pilot who landed the plane Monday at a small airfield in Hakodate will be transferred to the United States on Wednesday.

But police and Foreign Ministry officials said they knew nothing of plans to transfer the pilot, and the U.S. Embassy refused comment. Police say the pilot has asked for political asylum in America.

Police referred the pilot's case to the Hakodate prosecutor's office on six charges: violating Japan's immigration control law, firearms control law, and gunpowder law, intimidation, and two violations of the aviation law — flying too low and overrunning the runway.

Police said the pilot fired a pistol into the air to keep startled airport workers away just after he screamed in for a surprise landing at the airfield in northern Japan. The MIG25 overshot the 6,700-foot runway by 800 feet and smashed two navigational antennas on the ground, they said.

In Washington, the State Department would say only that the matter of the pilot's request for asylum was under consideration.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said in Paris today that the United States

"will probably grant asylum" to the pilot. "If we do not, you can assume I have been overruled," he said. Kissinger has been meeting with various European leaders on the brewing racial confrontation in southern Africa.

One Japanese source with good official connections said he heard that the plane might be moved by ship from Hakodate to the U.S. air base at Misawa, in northern Honshu, the main Japanese island.

Officials of the Japanese Defense Agency said they were primarily interested in the supersonic jet fighter's electronic firing control system. Experts from Tokyo and the Japanese Defense Force base at Chitose, near Hakodate, flew Monday to the Hakodate landing site.

Other Western embassies in Tokyo indicated keen desire to examine the plane.

Mother faces charge after dog kills baby

NEW YORK (AP) — A mother who left her five-day-old daughter alone with a starving German Shepherd while she went to get money for food returned to find the baby dead, partially eaten by the 15-pound dog.

The woman was charged with negligent homicide. The dog was destroyed.

"I left the baby on the floor with the dog to protect it.... The dog ate my baby," Joanne Bashold, 24, told police Monday when they arrived at her barren sixth-floor walkup apartment in Spanish Harlem.

Miss Bashold, who is unmarried and has lived on welfare since moving here from Ohio in June, was jailed overnight. She faced arraignment today in Manhattan Criminal Court.

The dog, a four-month-old female whose ribs protruded visibly, was destroyed for examination of its stomach contents to verify that it killed the baby.

Police said the dog hadn't eaten for at least six days before the attack.

Miss Bashold gave birth to the baby, Carra, at Bellevue hospital on Wednesday. Authorities said she told them her pregnancy resulted from a rape that she never reported to police.

She returned Sunday night to her two-room apartment. The only furniture was a wooden folding chair and a brown rug folded in half on which mother and baby slept. The dog slept nearby.

A welfare worker had promised to give her a crib today, she said.

On Monday morning, Miss Bashold said, she left the apartment alone at 7 a.m. to pick up some belongings from the hospital, including $20 in cash with which to buy food for herself, the baby and the dog. The refrigerator in the apartment was empty.

Neighbors in the tenement said later that as far as they knew, she wasn't friends with anyone in the building.

U.S. still demanding full account of MIAs

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say they are pleased that the government of Vietnam has identified a dozen U.S. airmen killed in the Vietnam war, but they are demanding a full accounting for the hundreds of other Americans still listed as missing in action.

"We're pleased that they've started to give us some information," said William Hyland, deputy national security affairs director to President Ford, after the Vietnamese government released the fliers' names in Paris on Monday. "What we want is a full accounting and without any further delay."

A State Department official repeated the call for a full accounting, saying, "We cannot believe that the Vietnamese wish to trade on the misery of American families."

The Vietnamese called their move a good-will gesture. They said the 12

Americans had been listed as missing in action.

The Pentagon said one had been listed as killed in action, one as a prisoner of war and the others as missing in action.

The Pentagon still lists 795 Americans as missing in action in the war, including 527 in Vietnam itself. It lists 1,710 others as killed in action whose bodies were not recovered, including 1,347 in Vietnam.

Most of the missing are fliers and it is generally presumed they are dead.

Observers viewed the surprise Vietnamese move as an attempt to ease U.S. opposition to Vietnam's application for membership in the United Nations and to encourage the United States to provide war reparations under the 1973 Paris cease-fire accord.

The Vietnamese listed the names, ranks, birth dates and serial numbers of the 12 men.

Council to consider home repair project

A proposal to permit the Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corp. (MVHRDC) to perform home repairs under the Community Development Block Grant Program will be made by local program director Tom Delph at the regular meeting of the City Council, to start at 7:30 tonight in the Municipal Building council chambers.

Under the proposal, Delph explained Monday morning, work crews would perform projects only on homes which have been approved by the city. An advisory committee consisting of local citizens will determine eligibility requirements. All homes to be helped under this program must be located in the pre-determined "impact zone" located largely in the northern part of the city. A section of this "impact zone" also is located in the southern portion of the city.

Additional requirements beyond this basic qualification will be drawn up by this committee and will be enforced by Mrs. Norma Jean Smith, 313 North Osage.

Initially, Delph said, two crews will be employed to perform the repair projects. Each two-man work crew will be supervised by the same foreman and leadman. A part-time project coordinator will also be employed. Additional crews may be employed at a later date if the need arises, it was reported.

MVHRDC, under this proposal, would also be empowered to subcontract electrical, plumbing and other work. Also, the agency would be required to submit regular reports of work accomplished and expenditures.

The final obstacle to the city receiving $270,000 in block grant program funds was apparently cleared last week when the council approved a fair housing ordinance and endorsed a revised affirmative action program covering municipal hiring policies.

In other business tonight, Mayor Allen Hawkins will announce his appointments to various city commissions and regulatory agencies. These vacancies occurred early last summer, but many remained unfilled until a mayor to succeed former mayor Jerry Jones was elected.

However, former Mayor Carl Franklin, who served several months this summer following Jones' resignation, created controversy last month by filling several of these vacancies. The most notable involved the Police Personnel Board.

Hawkins said he does not expect city firemen or street and alley employees to officially meet with the council this evening. A date for the next meeting between firemen and the city, as well as further developments regarding the street and alley workers, are expected to be announced tonight, Hawkins said.

Cancer research important to climber

EVEREST BASE CAMP, Nepal (AP) — Arlene Blum hopes to be the first American woman to climb Mt. Everest, but she says cancer research is more important to her.

"My research is very important to me, more important than mountaineering," said the 31-year-old biochemist from Berkeley, Calif., one of the two women in the 11-member American Bicentennial Everest Expedition.

Huddled in a tent as the snow fell on the base camp 11,500 feet below the peak of the world's highest mountain, Ms. Blum was reading over an advance copy of her article "Flame Retardant Additives as Possible Cancer Hazards."

A runner had just brought it with the mail.

"My research on chemicals in the environment that may cause cancer is so satisfying," she said. "I think I can really help people this way. We spend so much money on trying to find cures for cancer but very little on the prevention of it. I really was reluctant to leave my work to come to Everest."

Earlier that day, draped with crampons, ice axe and a rope, and wearing a floppy zebra-striped sun hat, she returned delightedly from several hours of work in the Khumbu ice fall, the treacherous icy gateway to the world's highest peak.

"I love being there," she said, tired but smiling. "I'm really getting excited about climbing."

On the three-week march from Katmandu to the base camp, as she trudged up the slippery trails, Ms. Blum could be heard championing her favorite causes: legislation requiring that cigarettes extinguish quickly to reduce fire risk; regulation of chemicals in hair dyes and fabrics that may cause cancer; population control in developing countries where she has traveled and climbed.

And equality for women climbers.

Ms. Blum is a strong believer in equal rights high up in the mountains, and daily there have been incidents that rankle the feminist in her.

Shortly after arriving at the base camp, the Sherpa guides asked for some climbers to accompany them to the base of the ice fall for a ceremony to the mountain deities. Ms. Blum was pointedly ignored when she offered to go.

But Ms. Blum feels herself to be an equal member of the expedition.

She is big — 5-feet-10 — and strong, has climbed higher before than any of the other Americans, and so far has stayed in good health, unlike some of the men who have been plagued by diarrhea and colds.

As for being the first American woman on the top — a Japanese and a Tibetan woman reached the summit in 1975 — "it's incidental," she said. "I'd like it a lot better without all the publicity; it's not an ego thing for me. But wouldn't it be wonderful if a woman did make it to the top."

Groups split over whether veto should be overridden

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Two self-styled good government groups have lined up on opposing sides of the main issue that will face the state legislature when it convenes here Wednesday.

Common Cause in Missouri has urged lawmakers to uphold Gov. Christopher S. Bond's veto of a revision in the 1974 campaign Practices Act while Missourians for Honest Elections, the group that spearheaded the drive to gain overwhelming voter approval of the law two years ago, is calling for an override of Bond's veto.

State lawmakers meet in the special election-year session beginning Wednesday afternoon for no more than 10 days to consider the governor's vetoes of bills passed during the last legislative session. Leaders expect the session to last no more than a few days.

While there are several bills on the agenda, leaders of the Democratic-controlled legislature have said they expect the major push for an override to be on the campaign law revision. A two-thirds vote would be needed in both houses — 23 in the Senate and 109 in the House.

Under the proposed bill, economic disclosure provisions currently in the law would be repealed for all candidates and replaced by provisions currently in force for the governor and members of the General Assembly. The bill is also intended to exempt most candidates for minor offices from making any disclosure of their income sources as well as close some loopholes in the present law.

Common Cause claims the bill would "make a farce of the financial disclosure currently required of candidates," and would exempt many major office candidates from the law. It backed up that claim with a study of the filings under the current provisions for this election year, claiming 30 per cent of the candidates for the legislature could have eluded the disclosure, which is intended to reveal potential conflicts of interest.

But Missourians for Honest Elections claim the economic disclosure provisions of the law are not its main asset and should be completely removed or diluted because of all the problems they have caused for minor office holders.

The group contended the main point of the law, adopted by a 4-1 margin in the 1974 general election, is to disclose campaign contributions and expenditures. Real conflict of interest legislation, MHE officials say, should be in a separate law.

Backers of that position agree, but claim they will have to use the burdensome provisions of the current law as a tradeoff for new conflict of interest legislation.

The revisions measure was passed on the final night of the legislative session last spring, only moments before the mandatory adjournment hour, and by the early hours of the following morning, Bond had indicated he would not accede to it.

He carried out that threat on June 29, vetoing the bill he said would gut economic disclosure provisions of the law. Bond said at that time he hopes his veto would spur the legislature toward adoption next January of a bill that would take care of the problems with the disclosure sections while not gutting those provisions entirely.

Key aides to the governor say they can stop any attempt to override the veto, conceding, however, that the needed two-thirds vote will probably be attained in the Senate.

"But in the House we feel generally safe," said one Bond aide. "We still want to do a little spade work but we've made some phone calls and generally we feel safe."

The bill failed to get 109 votes on a key vote in the House on the last night of the session, but House Speaker Richard Rabbitt said the reason for that lack of support has now passed.

"Some House members felt people would think we were trying to exempt ourselves from the disclosure provisions," Rabbitt said. "But now we've already been under it for the primary election and that situation has changed. The push now is really for these minor office holders."

Rabbitt said no head count for votes has been formally taken in the House on the issue.

Family Size	Maximum Family Income Eligible for Free Meals and Free Extra Milk	Maximum Family Income Eligible for Reduced Price Meals
1	$3,680	$5,730
2	4,830	7,530
3	5,980	9,330

Children from families whose income is at or below those shown are eligible for free meals and free extra milk, or reduced price meals. In addition, families not meeting this criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent home in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted, any time during the school year.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, they should contact the school.

If a family member comes unemployed or if family size changes, the family should contact the school. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for reduced price meals or for free meals and free extra milk.

In the operation of child-feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, or national origin. Under the provision of the policy, the Principal of Schools will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis or he may make a request either orally or in writing to the Superintendent whose address is Paul S. McKee, Supt., Hughesville, Missouri 65334 for a hearing to appeal the decision.

Hearing procedures are outlined in the policy. A complete copy of the policy is on file in each school and in the central office where it may be reviewed by any interested party.

Highway toll higher by 69

CHICAGO (AP) — The death toll on the nation's highways for the three-day Labor Day weekend was 476, 69 more than died during the same period last year.

The number of fatalities exceeded the predictions of the National Safety Council, which had estimated that from 260 to 460 persons would die in automobile accidents.

The Associated Press count covered the period beginning at 6 p.m. Friday and ending at midnight Monday.

Last year, 407 persons died in Labor Day weekend traffic accidents. The highest number of deaths for a Labor Day weekend came in 1969, when 688 persons were killed on the roads.

Beginning in 1347, the Black Plague wiped out at least one-quarter of the population of Europe.

Schlesinger to China

Person need not quit eating bread

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have high blood sugar, but I'm not diabetic, maybe borderline. I have quit eating sweets, also potatoes. Should I also quit eating bread?

Dear Reader — One high sugar (glucose) level does not make a diagnosis. If you are overweight you should concentrate on losing fat as your main goal. To that end eliminating high calorie sweets is a good idea.

Bread is an important part of most diets. The usual diabetic can eat bread. Even the diabetic, which you say you are not, has a diet plan that fits with his treatment. Should he require insulin, the amount is geared to his diet, whatever that may be, and his daily physical activity or life style. Changing any of these can upset the treatment program. This means that most diabetics can and do eat bread. You need some whole wheat bread or cereal to provide cereal fiber in your diet.

You should also consider eliminating all the excess fat in your diet, particularly if you have a weight problem. In recent years diabetic specialists have emphasized that the type of diet needed for diabetics is low in fat and cholesterol to help avoid the high incidence of heart attacks and vascular disease in diabetics.

Dear Dr. Lamb — My daughter who is 14 has not started her monthly period. She is very concerned because all her girlfriends have. She is small for her age, 4 feet 10 and weighs 80 pounds.

She doesn't want to go to the doctor. Please tell us about menstruation.

Dear Reader — The first thing to do is relax. The onset of menstruation varies from ages 10 to 16 for most girls. Five per cent do not have their first period until between the ages of 16 and 18 and one per cent between ages 18 and 20.

Climate, habits and hereditary factors are all important in determining the onset. Unless your daughter has some definite signs of an endocrine deficiency or is not otherwise in good health I would recommend ignoring the situation until she is at least 16.

Sometimes menstruation is delayed because of obesity or more often these days from excessive preoccupation about weight, associated with ill-advised crash and fad diets.

Just be sure she has a good healthy diet, avoids obesity and remains normally active. Nature usually does the rest. So don't get upset about it and give nature a chance.

You may be interested to know that menstruation between the ages of 2 and 8, with pregnancy, has been reported occasionally in some apparently healthy young girls. In other instances of such early menstruation underlying medical problems caused the early menstruation.

Utility bills hit Arkansas college

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — Unexpected utility bills may force the University of Central Arkansas to spend twice its projected budget during this year, school President Jefferson Farris, said recently.

He said the school originally had allotted $400,000 for utilities, but said the final total may hit $900,000 this year.

Farris said increasing city sewer and water bills may force the college to spend $4,122 a month for utilities the school paid $274 for in July.

Fund drive's chairman is selected

SMITHTON — Mrs. Donna K. Sawford has accepted chairmanship of the 1976 Breath of Life Campaign of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation for this area.

Longevity in patients with cystic fibrosis, a lung disease, has increased every year because of earlier diagnosis and research. However, this disease remains the number one genetic killer of children.

"We want everyone in Smithton to know what the symptoms of cystic fibrosis are, and we want our dollars to help find a cure for this breath-taking disease by giving to the Breath of Life Campaign," Mrs. Sawford said.

Estimates run high from car vandalism

Vandals caused an estimated $1,050 damage to seven new and used cars at Town and Country Motors, 3110 West Broadway, sometime over the weekend. All of the cars were scratched with a sharp object.

Three televisions sets were stolen from Knight's TV, 713 West Main, sometime Monday. Value for the sets was listed at over $1,096. Police reported that officers found the burglary while on patrol about 6:50 a.m. Monday. A north plate glass window was broken to gain entry. Police reported that several finger prints and blood stains were found at the scene.

In other police news, two windows and two window signs were shot out by a pellet gun at Broadway Realty, 1911 West Broadway, sometime over the weekend. Damage was estimated at $700.

Thieves burglarized the State Farm Building, 2111 West Broadway, over the weekend and several items were taken from two businesses.

While in the building the offices for State Farm Insurance were gone through. However, nothing was reported taken. The Truman Barber Shop, in the same building, was burglarized and an undetermined amount of cash was taken from a cash drawer.

Also while in the building, thieves broke into the offices of the Utili-Comm Credit Union and stole a money bag, containing $10 and $300 to $500 worth of tickets to Worlds of Fun and Silver Dollar City. Also taken was a bank safety deposit key. The soda machine was also opened and its change stolen.

Five volunteer fire fighting units battle local fire

Members of five rural fire departments spent two hours battling a grass fire along the Missouri-Pacific railroad right-of-way east of Sedalia Sunday afternoon. The fire spread for almost eight miles down the tracks.

Pettis County volunteer firemen were called to the scene about 5:20 p.m. Sunday and found the fire rapidly spreading east along the tracks from east of the airport. Aid to the county firemen was given by firemen from Green Ridge, Smithton, LaMonte and Otterville. No one was injured in the blaze.

Several telephone and electric poles were destroyed or weakened by the blaze. However, no loss of service was reported. Several fences were also destroyed.

Fire officials reported that an east-bound train apparently started the fire. One of the train's engines was reportedly on fire as it rolled through the area. It was not known if the train was damaged.

Probation denied in drug case here

Probation was denied in Circuit Court Tuesday morning for Kenneth Joseph Schetzler, 21, formerly of Knob Noster, and he was ordered to serve a two-year sentence in the custody of Missouri Department of Corrections on a marijuana possession charge.

Schetzler pleaded guilty to the charge July 14 and was ordered to begin serving the two-year sentence in the county jail, pending completion of Air Force hearings and Tuesday's probation hearing. Schetzler was given a general discharge from the Air Force, it was learned.

Sedalia police arrested Schetzler Oct. 20 at Second and Massachusetts. An airman stationed at Whiteman Air Force Base at the time, he allegedly had about 20 pounds of marijuana and a jar of what was thought to be marijuana seeds in his possession when arrested.

Congressional races held in four states

By The Associated Press

Voters picked congressional candidates in primary elections today in four states, including Arizona, where Rep. Morris K. Udall, a loser to Jimmy Carter for the Democratic presidential nomination, sought renomination to his House seat.

In Florida, Democratic Rep. Robert L.F. Sikes, challenged by John Benton Jr., 26, was burdened by a reprimand from House colleagues for failing to disclose a possible conflict of interest. Benton had resigned from the U.S. Commerce Department and filed for the race one day before the deadline.

Sikes' reprimand involved financial dealings and his chairmanship of the military construction appropriations subcommittee.

Primaries also were held in North Dakota and Connecticut. Besides selecting a Democratic nominee to the House, North Dakota voters were picking a Republican nominee for governor.

Udall, with opposition from Tucson City Councilman Ruben Romero, was forecast by party leaders as the victor. Laird Gutterson, a Udall critic and retired Air Force flier, was unopposed as the GOP nominee for November's general election.

Besides choosing between Udall and Romero, Arizona voters were selecting nominees to replace retiring Republican U.S. Sen. Paul Fannin.

Reps. Sam Steiger and John Conlan sought the GOP nomination. Carolyn Warner, state education superintendent; Dennis DeConcini; and former state Atty. Gen. Wade Church vied for the Democratic nomination.

In Arizona's 1st District, House Minority Leader John Rhodes was challenged by Mesa City Councilman Louis Stradling.

Tempe housewife Pat Fullinwider, who lost to Rhodes in the 1974 general election, had no opposition for the Democratic nomination.

In Connecticut's 4th District, Charles B. Tisdale of Bridgeport, nominated by the state Democratic party convention, was challenged by Geoffrey D. Peterson of Westport.

The winner faces GOP Sen. Rep. Stewart B. McKinney in November.

In North Dakota, Gov. Arthur A. Link ran without opposition on the Democratic ticket. Richard Elkin, state Public Service Commission president, was favored to win the Republican nomination over Herb Geving. Martin Vaaler was not contested as the American party's candidate.

Lloyd Omdahl and Torfin A. Teigen were seeking the Democratic nomination to the state's one House seat. Republican Rep. Mark Andrews had no primary opposition, and Russell Kleppe, a cousin of Interior Secretary Thomas Kleppe, had no opposition for the American party nomination.

Scientists hope for best from Viking 2

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists say that if Viking 2 finds organic molecules when it sifts Martian soil they will be convinced that life exists on the red planet.

The Viking 1 space probe seems to have been telling about the discovery of life for the past few weeks. Dr. Gerald Soffen, Viking's chief scientist, said Monday. But he said its experiments failed to produce any of the carbon-based, or organic, molecules which are found in every living thing on earth.

The lack of organics is "the single argument against biology (life)," Soffen said. "I would have said, 'That is life,' but that organic is holding me back."

If Viking 2 comes up with organic molecules, "that would do it for us," he said.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here thought they might find organic substances on Mars, but they were unprepared for the discovery of what apparently seems to be life-harboring soil that contains no organics. They have described Viking 1's findings as "tantalizing, but inconclusive" and "bizarre chemistry."

Income tax

The dates have been set for the 1976 Income Tax Institute in Sedalia as Nov. 17 for farm and Nov. 18 for urban tax questions. On Nov. 19 a farm income tax institute will be held in Warrensburg.

Field day

Agronomy Day has been set for Thursday at the University of Missouri Bradford Farm Research Center, about seven miles east of Columbia.

Tours will start at 7 a.m. and will leave every 15 minutes until 11:30 a.m.

UMC researchers and Extension specialists will report the latests developments in soil fertility, foliar feeding, weed control, forage fertilization, double cropping, irrigation, minimum tillage, soybean production and disease prevention.

Hay directory

Area hay growers are urged to list their names in the 1976 Missouri Hay Directory. The directory lists those who expect to have hay to sell each winter. It is published by the Missouri Department of Agriculture and agricultural extension at UMC.

Potential hay sellers may be included in the directory by giving their name, address and phone number to any local Extension Center or to the Department of Agriculture. Sellers are asked to specify type of hay and expected quantity for sale.

Deadline for getting information turned in for the list is Nov. 1. The directory will be available about Dec. 15, at no charge, from Extension Centers. The directory is also widely distributed to state departments of agriculture and extension workers in states surrounding Missouri.

Irrigation

Many farmers whose crops are suffering from severe drought are already making plans to irrigate next year.

This is the best time to check a water supply — whether you're planning to get your water from a well, stream or reservoir. Farmers who expect to irrigate from reservoirs that will be filled from run-off definitely should plan on building them this fall.

Reservoirs need fall, winter and spring run-off to get them filled. So, if you wait until spring, there is very little chance that you will have enough run-off water to fill it.

For those planning to pump from streams, this dry season is the best time to check a stream's water capacity. Where stream flow is low, irrigators can pump from the stream during times of high water and store it in a reservoir.

Missouri water laws are not clear, but irrigators can generally pump from streams if they do not materially reduce the flow of the stream or affect other users.

If you're planning a well, it's a good idea to check with the Missouri Division of Geology and Land Survey in Rolla. Experts there can tell you potential well water quality and quantity. They also have information on stream flow in your area.

By examining water sources and making plans for a water supply now, farmers can invest in the rest of the irrigation system with more confidence. They can also plan for the seed and fertilizer required to produce profitable yields under irrigation.

Area Extension specialists will help individual farmers who want to evaluate irrigations feasibility and profitability.

New wheat

Hart is a soft, red winter wheat developed by the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station and released jointly by Missouri and Pennsylvania. It is a bearded variety and the awns are rough. We who have been distinguishing between soft and hard wheat by the beards will have to chuck this system with the addition of Hart to the soft wheats for Missouri. Hart has good lodging resistance. It shows good resistance to mildew, Septoria, ergot, loose smut and the steam and leaf rusts. It has resistance to the Great Plains race and Race C of Hessian fly. Hart's test weight is equal to other soft wheat varieties, and milling and baking qualities are acceptable when grown under normal environmental conditions in Missouri. Hart shows some real promise.

Carter's son reveals views on marijuana

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Jeff Carter, 22-year-old son of Jimmy Carter, says that although he has tried marijuana "I don't recommend it to anybody."

Young Carter made the comment at a news conference Monday as he and his wife, Annette, joined Carter family members for the start of Carter's campaign in the South.

Jeff's mother, Rosalynn, disclosed in an interview last week that her three sons have smoked marijuana. Jeff told reporters, "I don't know why she said it. I kind of wish she hadn't."

While saying he does not recommend it, he said the laws against marijuana in some places are too severe and that authorities should be "more lenient" about it.

If his father is elected president, he said, "I think he'll try to decriminalize marijuana."

The Democratic presidential nominee has said before that he favors a modified form of marijuana decriminalization, with civil penalties for possession of small amounts.

Nutrition low on list of shopping priorities

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Americans are paying more attention to what goes into the food they eat these days, but supermarket shoppers still look for price and brand name before they check for ingredients or nutritional value.

That's one of the findings of a report by the consumer studies division of the Food and Drug Administration, which surveyed people in 1973 and again in 1975 to try to find out how much consumers know about food and nutrition.

Among the questions in the recently-released report was one asking people what they paid attention to when shopping for food.

Price was the item named most often. Almost three-fourths of those surveyed both in 1973 and 1975 said they looked at the cost of the item.

Brand name was second on the list, but it apparently is declining in importance. Fifty-eight per cent of those surveyed in 1973 and 54 per cent of those checked in 1975 said they paid attention to the brand name of a product.

The biggest change was in the number of people looking for some kind of date on the package — indicating either when the product was made or by when it should be used. Fifty-nine per cent of those questioned in 1975 said they paid attention to the date of manufacture or expiration, an increase of 16 percentage points from 1973.

Interest in nutritional value also increased. Only 27 per cent of those checked in 1973 said they looked for the calories, vitamins and minerals in a product; 41 per cent of the 1975 group said they paid attention to nutrition.

The number of people who paid attention to ingredient lists rose by five percentage points — from 42 per cent in 1973 to 47 per cent in 1975. Twenty-six per cent of those surveyed last year said they paid attention to the proportion of the major ingredient in a product — how much beef in canned beef goulash, for example. That was an increase of eight percentage points from 1973.

The FDA has been trying to learn what consumers think of nutritional labeling — now required for manufacturers who make a nutritional claim for their products — and whether shoppers actually will use the information. Some food industry officials claim there is not enough interest among the general public to justify the added costs.

While the regulators, the industry and the public debate what should — or shouldn't appear on the label — the Agricultural Research Center in Greenbelt, Md., is trying to determine exactly what goes into some 60,000 food items.

The center is setting up a Nutrient Composition Laboratory with an $800,000 annual budget and a staff of 36 scientists as part of its Nutrition Institute headed by Walter Mertz.

Ford-Carter debates will be show biz

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — There are times, honest to Pete, when you wonder if our glorious Republic deserves to survive. We approach such a pessimistic hour in the matter of the Ford-Carter debates.

Kilpatrick

Inevitably, these will be described as "great debates," and in one regrettable sense the description may fit. In a close contest between the two candidates, the November outcome may be greatly influenced by these televised bouts. Forensically speaking, the debates will be second-class entertainment. As orators, Ford and Carter have all the excitement of last week's left-over macaroni.

It involves our electoral process in a sorry confusion of values, to choose a president of the greatest nation in the free world as if we were so many Howard Cosells at a ringside. Will Carter score with his Watergate hook? Will Ford draw blood with his deficit jabs? Will Carter lose points on ambiguous clinches? The pundits of political pugilism will be analyzing every stammer. This isn't a rational part of the political process. This is show biz; this is hoopla, a sporting event.

But it is too late to call the fights off now. Ford and Carter got themselves into these one-on-one matches in the finest tradition of American adolescence: The dare. The chip on the shoulder. The line drawn by a stubby toe in the sand. All around the candidates were bellicose companions urging them on: Let's you and him fight. Our people dearly love a bloodied nose.

Maybe that is what we will see. More likely, the debates will be a bore. In either event, we will be picking a winner for all the wrong reasons. Quick wit counts in a televised debate; but quick wit is immaterial in a chief executive. The TV audience doubtless will be impressed by the instant decisive response, but presidents ought not to respond to complicated questions with instant answers. I know how I would proclaim the winner. It would be the first man who looks the American people in the eye, through the TV lens, and has the guts to tell them: "I don't know."

Well, one hopes for the best. If the home audience will pay closer attention to what the combatants say, and less attention to how they say it, perhaps we will wind up with some net gain in public understanding. There are in fact sharp differences between Ford's positions and Carter's positions; the Republican and Democratic platforms provide clear contrasts on important issues. Substance should mean more than style — but it probably won't.

In sanctioning and broadcasting these ungreat debates, both the Federal Election Commission and the TV networks have encountered troublesome problems. No matter how the matter of cost is papered over, the broadcasting corporations will be making an immense financial contribution to the major party candidates. This is the kind of thing, in theory, that recent election reforms were intended to prevent.

One unfortunate consequence is that Eugene McCarthy, the only serious third-party candidate in the race, will be effectively frozen out. He gets no "equal time" or anything approaching equal time. The sponsoring League of Women Voters cannot be reasonably faulted for taking the view that under the usual rules of debate, two is company but three a crowd. Network editors fear that if they provide free time for a McCarthy solo, they will have to accommodate Lester Maddox also — and after old pick-handle, the deluge.

The British do these things better. They allocate public funds, in effect, for their candidates to use in campaign broadcasts. Each Labour and Conservative candidate is given five 10-minute slots on TV, plus four periods of 10 minutes and three of five minutes on British radio. Candidates of the minority Liberal party get about half as much time. The even smaller Scots Nationalists and Welsh get proportionately less.

Some adaptation of the British scheme might well be considered here. Such a system would get the networks off the hook; it would leave the actual use of broadcast time to the candidates' own best judgment; and it would deflate the kind of carnival midway promotion that now awaits us. That is for the future. This time around, let us brace ourselves for the buildup that precedes the letdown.

Art Buchwald

Fail-safe measures a comfort

(Art Buchwald was so disappointed he wasn't chosen as President Ford's running mate that he has decided to take a few weeks off. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns.)

Buchwald

One of the things everyone has to worry about these days is the danger of an accidental war being set off with nuclear weapon. The best-selling book "Fail-Safe," by Eugene Burdick and Harvey Wheeler, deals with this problem when a group of American bombers have gone past their fail-safe point and, because of some foul-up in a little black box, the bombers haven't gotten the word to come back. They are scheduled to blow up Moscow. To show the Russians it's all an accident, the President of the United States blows up New York, even though his wife is there on a shopping trip.

But there is another school in Washington that insists there are so many safeguards on atomic weapons that even if someone wanted to fire one he wouldn't be able to do it.

Here is how this school sees it. In order to start a war, someone will have to push a button. To safeguard that no one will push the button accidentally, it is hidden every week in a different slot.

Only two people, both low-ranking military officers from different branches of the armed services, know the location of the button—but they don't know each other. Each has the authority to push the button when ordered to do so from higher up. But if both their thumbs are not on the button at the same time, it will not work.

Now let us suppose, by some stretch of the imagination, both men accidentally meet at the same location at the same time and both decide to push the button at the same time. This does not automatically start World War III. When the button is pushed, all it does is turn on a green light in the bombproof, radiation-shielded, underground shelter in a secret place near Cheyenne, Wyo. The shelter is manned by an enlisted WAC and an enlisted WAVE, each of whom has a key to a white Princess telephone. As soon as they see the green light, they dial a secret number in South Dakota and say, "Condition Green."

This information is passed on to the quartermaster of the base, who immediately tries to contact Washington. But since he doesn't have the area code number for Washington, he can't dial directly. So he sends the message by carrier pigeon. This is known as "Condition Red."

As soon as the pigeon arrives in Washington, the secretary of defense is notified, and he in turn informs the President.

But the President cannot give the signal to do anything without turning a switch and there are seven locks on the switch. Each member of the President's family has a key to one of the locks and the switch cannot be pulled unless all the locks are opened at the same time. Since the family is never in Washington all at the same time, it is virtually impossible for the President to pull the switch.

Therefore, the chances of an accidental or even an intentional war are remote and shouldn't give anyone any sleepless nights. If it weren't for all these safeguards, I'd be worried too.

Robust economy of Missouri

Missouri apparently is well ahead of most of the nation in its economic recovery as unemployment has fallen to its lowest level in 22 months.

Latest figures show that the jobless rate in Missouri in August dropped to 4.7 per cent, down from 5.4 per cent in the previous month. Fewer than 98,000 persons were out of work in August in the state, according to figures from the Division of Employment Security.

This is a record that should encourage all Missourians. The jobless rate is only seven-tenths of one per cent away from the 4 per cent figure that is generally regarded as the level at which there is full employment.

The surprisingly favorable economic picture in Missouri also has seen a strong rise in tax revenues, according to state Treasurer James I. Spainhower. Tax dollars received for August and July of this year rose a hefty 12.7 per cent above the same two months in 1975.

Spainhower said the improving economic outlook would enable officials to create a cash reserve fund as a cushion against another tight financial situation such as the state experienced last winter.

Thus economic prospects in Missouri are among the best in the nation. Missourians can take pride in living in a state that offers what most other states can't — unemployment rate of less than 5 per cent. (St. Louis Globe-Democrat)

"Heh, heh! I happen to know it's not loaded."

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Mafia mobster John Roselli may have taken the secret of the John F. Kennedy assassination with him to his death. He was brutally murdered a few weeks ago, his hacked-up body stuffed into an oil drum and dumped into Miami's Biscayne Bay.

Before he died, Roselli hinted to associates that he knew who had arranged President Kennedy's murder. It was the same conspirators, he suggested, whom he had recruited earlier to kill Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

By Roselli's cryptic account, Castro learned the identity of the underworld contacts in Havana who had been trying to knock him off. He believed, not altogether without basis, that President Kennedy was behind the plot.

The Cuban leader, as the supreme irony, decided to turn the tables and use the same crowd to arrange Kennedy's assassination, according to Roselli's scenario. To save their skins, the plotters lined up Lee Harvey Oswald to pull the trigger.

Roselli could never be pinned down on names or details. It was also difficult to assess whether he knew what he was talking about or whether he merely described what he thought might have happened. Certainly there is no real evidence to support Roselli's story. But there are enough curious circumstances to justify telling it. Here are the fascinating highlights.

The ruggedly handsome Roselli, a flamboyant mobster with underworld

Merry-go-round

Putting together JFK assassination

contacts in Havana, was recruited by the Central Intelligence Agency in 1960 to assassinate Castro. He had no authority, however, over the underworld elements in Havana.

They were under the loose control of Florida's Mafia chieftan, Santos Trafficante. His gambling enterprises in Havana had been closed down by Castro after the 1959 revolution. In fact, Trafficante had been lodged for a period in a Cuban jail, an indignity that didn't endear Castro to him.

After Trafficante made it back to his Florida haunts, he left part of his organization behind in Havana. Some of his henchmen even managed to develop contacts in Castro's inner circle. These were the people Roselli wanted to use to knock off Castro.

But Roselli didn't have the stature inside the Mafia to make the necessary arrangements with Trafficante. So Roselli called in his patron, the Chicago godfather Sam "Momo" Giancana, to deal with Trafficante.

As Roselli's associates tell it, he persuaded Giancana that it would be to their advantage to win the good will of the CIA. Convinced, Giancana flew down to Florida to make the preliminary arrangements.

He was in the middle of these delicate dealings, incidentally, when he learned that his favorite girl friend, singer Phyllis McGuire, had developed a romantic attachment in Las Vegas to comedian Dan Rowan. Enraged, Giancana wanted to fly straight to Las Vegas and end the romance.

But Robert Maheu, who had recruited

Roselli for the CIA, talked Giancana out of it by offering to bug Rowan's hotel room and promising the angry mobster a full report.

Once Giancana and Trafficante set it up, Roselli used the Havana underworld to plot Castro's demise. At first, they tried to plant poison pills, supplied by the CIA, in Castro's food. The pills would have made it appear that he died of natural causes. When this failed, snipers were dispatched to a Havana rooftop. They were caught.

The word reached Roselli that some of the plotters had been tortured and that Castro had learned about the whole operation.

The CIA called off the Roselli operation in March, 1963, but recruited a Castro associate named Rolando Cubela to murder Castro.

In an impromptu, three-hour interview with Associated Press reporter Daniel Harker, Castro indicated that he knew about the attempts on his life and warned that U.S. leaders also might not be safe. That was Sept. 7, 1963.

According to Roselli, Castro enlisted the same underworld elements whom he had caught plotting against him. They supposedly were Cubans from the old Trafficante organization. Working with Cuban intelligence, they allegedly lined up an ex-Marine sharpshooter named Lee Harvey Oswald, who had been active in the pro-Castro movement.

According to Roselli's version, Oswald may have shot Kennedy or may have acted as a decoy while others ambushed him from closer range.

Color remover aids yellowing

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the stores that refuse to sell a small amount of yard goods, unless there is a full yard remaining on the bolt after your purchase. Either you do not buy and they lose a sale, or you buy the extra amount that you do not need and vow you will not buy there again. If more people wrote to the stores' public relations departments this might be remedied. — ALICE.

DEAR POLLY — I used a tea pot that has no strainer holes for serving gravy, rather than a regular gravy boat. I heat the pot before putting the gravy in and it keeps the gravy hotter. It pours easier and may be stored in the refrigerator later. — BETTY B.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for Girl and Boy Scouts. My granddaughter flew to a Girl Scout meeting this spring. It was her first experience in camping in a high altitude. Her required list included five blankets so we came up with two wool car robes and two double acrylic blankets. The fifth had us a bit puzzled until we tucked a 36 inch by 50 inch baby blanket inside her sleeping bag. The size was wonderful and she was thrilled. It kept her warm as toast. — A Third Generation Girl Scout.

DEAR POLLY — Any size dishwashing liquid bottle cut from the bottom up, so it is about two and a half inches tall, makes a good holder for a scouring pad. It is cheaper than buying one, and the back of the sink stays dry. — SHERRIE.

DEAR POLLY — If you make your own rye bread and need ground caraway seeds, use a pepper mill instead of the blender, I find it is much easier. — LUCY.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I have a handmade white nylon baby sweater set and some 100 per cent cotton shirts (white with color prints) that have yellow age spots on them from being packed away for five years. Do you have any idea how I could get the yellow out? — PEGGY.

DEAR PEGGY — Have you tried washing the garments in one of those detergents that has a special brightener? According to a U.S. Dept. of Agriculture Bulletin, color removers are safe for most fibers, but can fade or remove many dyes. If a test on a small corner shows this does not happen on yours, you may be able to restore the whiteness by using a color remover followed by an immediate rinsing and drying in the air. Follow directions on the box carefully. A bleach suitable for the fabrics might also be used — dilute it to about two tablespoons to a quart of cool water. Of course, the nylon sweater set could have absorbed yellow from something else stored with it, and that can seldom be removed. The entire set might be dyed yellow, and the shirts one of the darkest colors in the print if all else fails. — POLLY.

Helping addicts, others in South Dakota

Woman's home is 'Haven of Hope'

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Kelli Jo Travers, who felt her role ultimately was "to make people aware of people," today boasts of having hosted under her roof 170 "kids" from a five-month-old abandoned infant to a 57-year-old man.

"People just sort of came to us," she said in an interview. "I'm like a magnet."

Mrs. Travers, Sioux Falls, says she and her husband, Red, opened their home to people with problems and christened it "Haven of Hope."

"It's the first project of my social ministry," Mrs. Travers said. "Jesus Christ was actually the first social minister. It's just lay people serving lay people."

She said college students who were staying out too much and drinking too much would approach her — "Ma Kelli, as kids would call me" — and ask to stay for the summer.

"We'd tell them sure, and they'd stay and get squared away and go back to school, and they'd be okay again," she said.

"Then it grew to children who were having problems in court. The court would ask me to talk with the children and invite them to come."

"Then I started working with parents who were having trouble with their children," she added. "Sometimes parents would send their children before they got into trouble with the courts."

Mrs. Travers said she set up a referral board of professionals, including doctors, lawyers and realtors.

"I started out with just a few people who believed in what I was doing," she said. "Now the referral board has grown, and people have volunteered their services on a 24-hour basis."

Mrs. Travers describes herself as "an ex-druggee, and I'm still using drugs. I'm addicted to both coffee and cigarettes."

"I never took drugs to run away," she added.

"I was putting myself through nursing and working besides. I took speed for nine or 10 days at a time, like diet pills, for 3½ years. When I had days off, I would take sleeping pills for two or three days to counteract the speed. But I never became addicted."

The Traverses live in a 1½-story, three-bedroom house.

"The most we've had at the Haven at one time — we accommodate whomever the Lord sends — was 19," she said. Their four children live with the couple.

One of the problems of many guests at Haven of Hope is drugs.

"The drug problem in South Dakota is very bad," she said. "How bad it is in comparison with other states I couldn't say."

"I never use statistics because I don't think in the drug field you can get statistics," she added. "I'm more concerned about the people using the drug."

Common substances used in South Dakota include marijuana and speed, she said, "and in some areas animal tranquilizers. Although you don't hear a lot about it, they are here."

"The thing that disturbs me is the drugs are not pure when the kids take them," she said. "They're cut. The kids don't know what they're taking."

Drug addiction turns some people to crime, "and you have a lot of kids running away," Mrs. Travers said. "It results in car thefts — you go a little berserk, you're like a different person, you go and do something exciting."

Mrs. Travers, who travels within the state several times a week to discuss drugs, said, "I don't give any suggestions on beating the habit. You can't. I'm not going to try to talk anyone out of taking alcohol, drugs or anything. It's their life, whether they're children or adults. Most of my children are known druggees," she added. "We're very open around here."

"Once in a while they come home and their eyes are glassy, or they are clumsy. I ask them what they're on."

"But lots of parents don't ask them, or don't find out. If the kids told their parents they're on it, they'd come unglued."

"I just tell parents to be open with their children. I tell them that if their children are on drugs, there's a reason. Let's find out what it is."

Of her 170 "Kids," Mrs. Travers said, "I have only 17 that have not kicked the habit. And only seven or eight have gone to the training school at Plankinton."

The duffel coat is where it's at this fall, especially one with a quilted look and toggles.

Rangers pull out 5-4 win

K.C. Royals fold in ninth; A.L. West lead now at six

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Whitey Herzog was searching for a ray of sunshine in a suddenly gray, threatening world. He could not find it.

"We've been playing so poorly lately," sighed the Kansas City manager. "Maybe this will get us going. But we won't know until tomorrow."

What could have been a historic, as well as valuable victory exploded in the Royals' faces Monday night when the Texas Rangers scored four runs in the ninth inning to emerge with a 5-4 triumph.

The Royals were playing before 27,008 fans who had raised the season attendance to 1,401,121, breaking this city's 21-year-old record for major league ball.

Oakland, their closest pursuers in the American League West, had downed California earlier in the day. But the Royals, with Doug Bird pitching a five-hitter, sailed into the ninth with a 4-1 lead.

With two out and Roy Howell on base, Joe Lahoud lofted a single that put runners on the corners.

Herzog elected to stay with Bird, and watched the right-hander serve a run-scoring single to Juan Beniques. Then pinch-hitter Dave Moates slammed a Bird pitch off the leftfield wall to tie the game.

Reliever Mark Littel came in, issued a walk and gave up the game winning hit to Toby Harrah.

The loss, Kansas City's seventh in their last eight games, dropped the Royals' advantage over the A's to six games, the same number the two have remaining with each other.

Herzog, surrounded by writers, was seemingly talking to himself.

"Get three runs in the first two innings, then just get one more," he said. "I thought we played all right, real aggressively, until that last inning."

"Maybe this will wake us up. We need something."

Rangers Manager Frank Lucchesi admitted the stinging defeat "might take a little out of the Royals."

"When you're coming down the stretch and lose one like that, giving up four runs with two out in the ninth, it can have an adverse affect on a young team."

"But I still think the Royals have a good, sound club, capable of playing very good baseball at any time. If the Royals can split their six games with Oakland, they should be all right. But if the A's get four or five of them, the Royals could be in real trouble."

"I'm no genius, you understand, but I'll tell you two things: It's going to be very interesting from here on in. And the A's have been there before."

License to steal

Oakland A's Phil Garner safely steals second base in the seventh inning of Monday afternoon's American League game with the California Angels. The theft by Garner, when he beat the throw from catcher Terry Humphrey and the tag by Dave Chalk (7) was only one of seven bases the A's stole in the 2-1, 11-inning victory. The total set an American League record.

Baltimore talks head coach into staying on

BALTIMORE (AP)—Ted Marchbroda, who quit as coach of the Baltimore Colts two days ago because of what he termed front-office interference, has been rehired for the post, the National Football League club announced today.

The Colts released a one-sentence statement which said: "By mutual agreement of all parties concerned, Ted Marchbroda is returning as head coach of the Baltimore Colts."

Barry Jones, a team spokesman, said Marchbroda would be at the Colts' training camp in suburban Catonsville around noon today. Marchbroda was not immediately available for comment.

Also unavailable for comment were Robert Isray, the team owner, and Joe Thomas, Baltimore's general manager.

Marchbroda was the NFL Coach of the Year last season after he led the Colts—2-12 a year before—to a 10-4 mark and a division championship.

The 45-year-old Franklin, Pa., native announced his resignation Sunday after failing to get a promise of an end to the bickering that he said existed between him and the Colts' management for several months.

"Any coach, in order to lead his men, must have the authority to call the shots. I couldn't tolerate the interference I was getting," Marchbroda said at the time.

There had been rumors Monday that Marchbroda would be offered the job again. Defensive coordinator Maxie Baughan and running back Lydell Mitchell, among others, said they wanted the coach back.

There had been talk of a players' boycott if Marchbroda was not rehired, but quarterback Bert Jones admitted that most of the players could not afford to stop playing—even if they were not bound by contracts.

Isray stormed into the Colts' locker room after their 24-9 loss to Detroit Thursday night and berated the players and coaches.

The owner said the next day that he wanted Marchbroda to stay on with the Colts but by then the coach had raised the issue of what he said was growing front office interference.

Marchbroda's resignation shocked fans and demoralized the team, which was preparing to open the season at New England Sunday. "I can't even tell them who to list in the program as coach," moaned public relations director Barry Jones.

Two of the club's six assistant coaches were reported to have told Thomas that they would resign if Marchbroda didn't return. According to the Baltimore Sun, one of the two was offered Marchbroda's job and turned it down.

Pearson again in win circle

DARLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—David Pearson, a graying 41-year-old grandfather, says he couldn't tell any difference between winning his first Southern 500 stock car race and winning any other race here.

"It seems like one of the Rebels to me," he said, referring to his six victories in the spring event over the 1.366-mile Darlington Raceway.

Asked Monday how it felt to become the second Triple Crown winner in NASCAR history, Pearson said he didn't know such a title existed until a sports writer mentioned it to him last week.

The only other driver to win the Southern, the World 600 and the Daytona 500 in the same year was Lee Roy Yar-brough, now retired, who won the three prestigious races in 1969. In fact, the record book shows that Richard Petty is the only other driver to score victories at those tracks but not in the same year.

Petty, winless here since 1967, finished second 2.85 seconds behind Pearson's Mercury. The Dodge driver passed Darrell Waltrip's Chevrolet on the fourth turn of the last lap.

Waltrip was third, with Dave Marcis' Dodge fourth and Lennie Pond's Chevrolet fifth, two laps down.

Pearson started from the pole but remained in the top 10 cars for most of the race. He led four times for a total of 93 of the 367 laps, including the last 45.

Pearson, who qualified for the pole with a record-breaking speed of 154.699 miles per hour, averaged 120.534 m.p.h. during the 4-hour, 9-minute race because of eight caution flags.

The biggest delay came when Joe Frasson's Chevrolet plowed into the side of Skip Manning's car, trapping Manning in his car for about half an hour.

Doctors said Manning suffered a fractured ankle and a fractured pelvis. He was listed in fair condition in a local hospital. Frasson was given first aid at the track hospital.

Bills acquire 3 running backs

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Bills of the National Football League have obtained three backs for future draft picks.

The first deal Monday sent a low 1977 draft choice to the Pittsburgh Steelers in exchange for speedy wide receiver Bob Gaddis, according to Bills Coach Lou Saban.

Later the club swapped two other undisclosed draft selections to the San Francisco 49ers, getting veteran wide receiver and defensive back Mike Holmes and safety Tim Anderson.

Gaddis sat out his rookie season in 1975 with a charley horse. Saban said he will use Holmes as a receiver, where he saw action in all 14 San Francisco games last season.

NFL ax falls on some big names

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It has happened so many times before: an assistant coach or an equipment man walks over to a player and says the fatal words, or merely points to the door of the head coach's office. No more needs to be said; it's over.

Quarterback Jim Dal Gaizo wasn't pleased when he got the news from the Miami Dolphins, nor were Dallas running backs Duane Thomas, and Ron Johnson, who found their comeback hopes submerged under a heavy rush of National Football League cuts. Big names and small, stars and non-stars were among the more than 120 victims on cutdown day.

Del Gaizo, contributing 25 completions in 40 attempts for 372 yards and three touchdowns to Miami's unbeaten preseason, was bitter. "I know this," he said, "there's no way this team would be 6-0 without me." His reward, he added was a kick in the pants.

But there were many who joined him on the sidelines Monday as rosters were pared to their 43-man limit. Pittsburgh trimmed quarterback Terry Hanratty; Los Angeles dropped wide receiver Jack Snow; Washington waived defensive end John Matuszak; San Diego sacrificed kicker Bruce Gossett, and Minnesota did likewise with veteran running backs Dave Osborn and Oscar Reed and defensive back Pete Athas. The New York Jets dropped back-up quarterback J.J. Jones.

Thomas, known in the past for moodiness, had come to the Cowboys' camp with a new image and hopes of earning a job on the team with which he started his career six years ago. Johnson, who played out the option year of his contract with the New York Giants last season and signed with Dallas, twice has gained over 1,000 yards in a season.

In some cases, there were words of regret by the people who made the moves. "It's a sports tragedy when a player of Jack Snow's caliber is released," said Rams General Manager Don Klosterman, who called the 33-year-old Snow "a brilliant receiver in the tradition of Tom Fears and Elroy Hirsch."

There is no way the St. Louis Cardinals can get defensive end Walt Patulski back for this season. He and four teammates were placed on the injured reserve list for the campaign.

The New England Patriots picked up wide receiver Marlin Briscoe from Detroit in exchange for a future draft choice. San Diego acquired placekicker Toni Fritsch from Dallas through the same route, then cut wide receiver Dwight McDonald and safety Maurice Tyler.

In other major moves, Kansas City cut veteran defensive back Jim Marsalis; Detroit dealt quarterback Bill Munson to Seattle for a draft choice; Chicago cut former all-Pro wide receiver Bob Grim, and the Giants cut back-up quarterback David Jaynes and kicker George Hunt.

Big Eight coaches tight-lipped

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Barry Switzer, Al Onofrio and Ellis Rainsberger weren't talking Monday like coaches whose Big Eight Conference teams had annihilated non-conference opposition last year.

Switzer, for example, said he didn't know what to expect Saturday when his Oklahoma Sooners take on Vanderbilt in Nashville, Tenn.

"Our football teams have never played against a wing-T offense," he said. "Very few teams run it. It's a complicated style of offense and our defensive teams won't have much recognition of it."

The Sooners are ranked fifth nationally, but Switzer said he didn't know if their wishbone could continue the awesome marches made famous by the now-departed Steve Davis and Joe Washington, or how effectively they have replaced defensive linemen Leroy and Dewey Selmon.

"Are we physically strong enough to have people come right at us north and south?" he asked. "A year ago I knew people couldn't do it. We were physically strong. The Selmons were just too much to cope with, people running right up at them."

Onofrio, whose Missouri team journeys to Southern California Saturday night, described the Tigers as "mentally and physically tired" and prescribed a shortened workout Monday.

"I hope they'll show signs of freshness in another couple of days," Onofrio said.

The Tigers' only experienced light end, junior John McDonald, underwent surgery Monday for a ligament and cartilage damaged suffered in Saturday's scrimmage.

Rainsberger's worries were simple: will the Kansas State defense be able to stop the passing of Brigham Young quarterback Gifford Neilsen, who hit 61 per cent of his passes a year ago?

"Defensively, we're still concerned about our secondary," he admitted. "BYU passes almost every down and they pose a lot of problems for you."

Rainsberger also moved freshman Roosevelt Duncan up to No. 1 fullback Monday, in place of Jim Cox, who is still bothered by knee problems.

Connors, Kodes clash in Open quarterfinals

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — They're starting to play serious tennis at the U.S. Open and that's fine with Jimmy Connors.

"If you're going to beat me it has to be in the first round," said Connors. "That's the way I feel. I think I'm the man to beat now."

No one beat Connors in the first round and no one beat him in the fourth round either. Connors, strong and aggressive, overpowered 12th-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis Monday night 6-4, 6-3, 6-1 to move in the quarterfinals.

The straight-set loss capped a bad day for the Gerulaitis family. Sister Ruta was beaten in the afternoon in singles and the two of them were eliminated from the mixed doubles competition.

Connors' opponent in the quarters will be Czechoslovakian strongman Jan Kodes, who outlasted South African veteran Frew McMillan 6-4, 7-6, 2-6, 7-6 in an afternoon match.

Third-seeded Guillermo Vilas and ninth-seeded Eddie Dibbs advanced to a quarterfinal showdown with straight-set victories. Vilas dispatched Teimuras Kakulia of the Soviet Union 7-5, 6-4, 6-0 and Dibbs wore out Rhodesia's Colin Dowdeswell 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

Both Vilas and Dibbs are clay-court specialists who prefer to stay in the backcourt. Their match could last forever.

"We have long matches," said Dibbs. "We both play the same so it will just depend on who's playing better that day. I'm pleased with my game. I just have to crack through in one of these big tournaments."

In women's play Monday, second-seeded Evonne Goolagong had to share the spotlight with 18-year-old Natasha Chmyreva, the budding Soviet star. Miss Chmyreva, seeded 13th, eliminated Kathy Kuykendall 3-6, 6-4, 6-3 to make it into the quarters where she will likely face Chris Evert.

Miss Goolagong is not concerned with pressure. "When I'm playing well I want to win," she said after whipping France's Francoise Durr 6-2, 6-0. "But when I'm not playing, I don't think about it."

The only other singles matches were third-round contests with Mima Jausovec, the 20-year-old Yugoslavian who ousted Virginia Wade, beating Miss Gerulaitis 6-4, 6-2, and Zenda Liess downing Mary Hamm 6-4, 6-2.

Names added for pro-am

EAST NORWICH, N.Y. The event will be held at two White Plains, N.Y., courses Monday, Sept. 27, according to Wolfgang Bulka, president of the Met Club Managers Association.

The nine include outfielder Roger Freed, 30, who hit 42 home runs during the regular season to equal a league record set in 1956 by Marv Throneberry.

Other players called up by the Expos include pitchers Joe Keener, 23, Larry Landreth, 21, Dan Warthen, 23 and Bill Atkinson, 21.

Also called up are third baseman Pat Scanlon, 23, shortstop Rod Scott, 22, and outfielders Andre Dawson, 22 and Gary Roenicke, 21.

Raiders deal for future picks

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders of the National Football League have traded away rookie return specialist Clarence Chapman and guard Ron Mikolajczyk for future draft choices.

Chapman, drafted seventh from Eastern Michigan, was sent to the New Orleans Saints on Sunday. Mikolajczyk, who played in the Canadian and World football leagues, was traded to the New York Giants.

Other players called up by the Expos include pitchers Joe Keener, 23, Larry Landreth, 21, Dan Warthen, 23 and Bill Atkinson, 21.

Also called up are third baseman Pat Scanlon, 23, shortstop Rod Scott, 22, and outfielders Andre Dawson, 22 and Gary Roenicke, 21.

South wins the heart lead, draws trumps and goes after diamonds. The suit breaks 3-3 so he gets to discard two hearts and a club and wraps up 13 tricks.

This doesn't mean that seven was a good contract. It made because diamonds broke 3-3 and suits break 3-3 just 36 per cent of the time.

On the other hand, the contract of six was a very good one. It was sure to make irrespective of trump and diamond breaks since South could always discard his losing club on a high diamond and ruff his third heart with dummy's fourth trump. The hand shows a weakness of standard American. When played in a matchpoint game the basic standard bidding went one spade-three spades-four spades-pass; or one spade-two diamonds-two spades-four spades-pass.

The bidding in the box shows one expert way of reaching six. Most experts play that the jump raise to three is invitational but not forcing. Hence, North's three-spade bid was forcing and asked South to make some below-game slam try if he could. South could and did when he bid four hearts. North showed the club ace and South bid the slam.

An Oklahoma reader wants to know if it is ever proper to incur a penalty deliberately. The answer is most decided "no." Penalties are there merely to prevent unintentional wrong doing.

Ann Landers

Shrewish wife needs counseling

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me how a wife who has so much to be thankful for can behave like such a rotten, worthless shrew. I am referring to myself.

I love my husband very much. He is a kind and gentle man with so many good qualities. My problem began last May when I went to the hospital to have our first child. I was 34 years old and we had tried for five years to have a family. Our joy was indescribable.

When I awakened from surgery they told me our baby was born dead. I cried for hours. When my husband came to see me I couldn't look at him. I was so filled with anger and hate I ordered him to leave.

Time has not helped. I still have these feelings of hostility toward my husband although I know he is not to blame. Sex is out of the question because of my anger. I realize I'm being unfair to him but I can't control my feelings. I am unable to discuss this problem with anyone because I'm a very private person. I realize I'm destroying my marriage and it's the only thing I have to live for. Please give me some advice. — Cracking Up In Delaware

Dear Friend: You are a sick woman who should be ventilating her anger with a therapist.

I urge you to ask your obstetrician to suggest a psychiatrist who specializes in problems such as yours. Please don't lose another minute. You should have gone into treatment last May.

Dear Ann: This is in reply to the letter from "Concerned" who was worried that she might get Negro blood when she had a transfusion in the hospital. For two years I was seriously ill with a liver condition. I was in and out of the hospital several times. The last time I went into a coma. Even my wonderful doctor had doubts that I would make it.

Thanks to his skill and determination, plus a lot of help from God and BLOOD DONORS, I recovered and am now in excellent health.

During those two long years I received 54 pints of blood from unknown donors. If I could meet them, I would kiss each and every one. I couldn't care less about their color, sex, religion or anything else. — Grateful In Ohio

Dear Grate: Dozens of people wrote to express the same sentiments, but you said it best.

And now — how many of you readers out there have donated a pint of blood lately? It's a precious gift — and only YOU can give it. Contact any hospital and make an appointment — today.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a secretary for a repair shop. The men who are employed here do mostly residential work.

Recently several customers have called and complained that after the work was completed, some items were missing from their homes. Four men whom I hold in high regard have confided that the boss's son is the one with the sticky fingers.

The question: Who should tell the boss? Me? The foreman? Everybody? We're all afraid of what might happen. But we can't let this continue. Help! — Steal Or Squeal

Dear S Or S: YOU should tell the kid with the sticky fingers. Let him know if any more complaints come in that his dad must be notified.
